WASHINGTON, Jan. 8.—The plan for settlement of the reparations controversy between France and England outlined by Secretary Hughes in his New Haven address has been communicated to the French government through official channels. It was stated today that a preliminary answer had been received. It was said at the State Department that the proposal was regarded as still before the French government for decision.

It was not stated whether the communication was sent by indication, or that it was transmitted before Mr. Hughes delivered his address at New Haven.

It was said authoritatively that the communication was "perfectly definite" in character, and it was indicated that international financiers be called in to formulate a reparations payment plan.

Official comment as to the nature of the reply received from Paris was withheld. The statement that the American suggestion was before the French government, however, was interpreted to mean that the French answer was not an unqualified rejection of the scheme.

MOSCOW, Jan. 8.—The "Young Communists," observing the Christmas for the Georgian calendar yesterday, launched their widely heralded "attack upon heaven" in a grotesque carnival procession that was a mockery of the world's great religions.

As American college boys make merry after a football victory so thousands of Russian students did a gigantic smoke dance around a great bonfire, the kindling of which before was one of the railway stations brought the day of revelry to a close. The climax came when the young people gleefully tossed into the flames tar and paper figures representing the deities of the Christian, Mohammedan, Jewish and Buddhist religions.

These show a total of 22,337 men involuntarily idle, mostly clerical and professional and unskilled workers. The most pronounced shortages are for common labor and workers in metal trades. Conditions vary slightly in the different districts. The report shows 35,675 men out of work due to strikes.

Commissioner Connelley sees in sight no relief from the scarcity with the result that 75 per cent production only can be attained. The result of using inexperienced workers in skilled trades is pointed out in the report of the Workmen's Compensation Bureau which shows an increase of 15 per cent in the number of industrial accidents resulting in death and of 25 per cent in the non-fatal accidents.

WERE BARBER AND SURGEON

Centuries Ago, Members of the Present Day Guild Embraced the Two Avocations.

A reminder of the survival of the ancient trade guilds in London, long after their members have ceased to have any connection with trades they ostensibly represent, is provided by the recent election of a chairman of the Company of Barbers.

The new chairman never was a barber, and his members have forgotten it. And the same is true of all the members of the company. But they are very proud of the old traditions of the company and get together on stated occasions to eat a generous dinner, washed down with good wine, and listen to speeches about the good old times.

The company was incorporated in 1461 and fifty years later an act was passed which prevented any persons not members of the company from practicing surgery within seven miles of the city of London, unless they had been licensed by the bishop of London. Barbers were versatile folk in those times, combining the avocations of surgeon and dentist with the work of trimming hair and beards.—From a London Letter to the New York Evening Post.

Service Rendered by Bees.
While the bees of this country gather or something like $75,000,000 worth of honey in a single year, they do a larger service for mankind in that they scatter the pollen from the flowers to new blossoms that produce from five to ten times that value in more and better fruit. In order to raise young bees the older bees gather what is known as pollen from the flowers. In the act of gathering it they scatter the pollen from one flower to another, thus ensuring what is known as pollination, so necessary to perfect fruitage. While the bee, of course, has no regard for the human owner, yet in the very act of getting itself when it carries pollen to the hive to feed its young, it makes more and better fruit.

PENNSYLVANIA'S PRIMARY ROAD SYSTEM ALMOST ENTIRELY IMPROVED

1,845 MILES
CONSTRUCTED IN FOUR YEARS

Distances Slashed in Many Places by State Highway Department Program.

LINCOLN WAY COMPLETE

By Associated Press
HARRISBURG Jan 3 — During 1919 1920 1921 and 1922 the State Highway Department of Pennsylvania constructed approximately 1845 miles of durable highway, and there ten in under contract but not completed approximately 185 miles of similar road.

The Department has prepared a map showing the primary, highway system or these roads of importance to the state at large and this map visualizes the improvement to Pennsylvania highways already had since the department first began the construction of all-weather highways. It is now possible to drive to approximately 700 miles on a state highway in Pennsylvania.

The Highway Department's map is an excellent guide to Pennsylvania roads and the section of the annual report of the department, now on the map only 155 miles remain to be completed and of this, 18 miles at but about 25 miles will be in use before August 1, 1923.

Distances have been slashed in Pennsylvania road lap events. In traveling from Harrisburg to Erie last weekend, it was formerly necessary to go via Pottsville and Lancaster, but the weather was wet and the time to go via Pittsburgh, Beaver, Erie, Youngstown and Connecticut Ohio was cut in half. The weather was all weather, road surface. But now the direct road is via Lewistown, Huntingdon, Tyrone, Clearfield, Brookville, Clarion, Franklin and Meadville and the journey which once consumed not less than 20 hours can now be covered in 10.

The New York and Ohio good road systems have been conserved through the improvement of the Lake road across Erie county and this highway is subjected to very heavy traffic.

The direct route from Corning N. Y. to Emmittsburg Md is entirely improved with the exception of seven miles of the project between Soling, grove and live pool and this will be finished early in the coming summer. There was a time when the trip from Corning to Emmittsburg could not be made under 16 days, but it can now be made in ten hours or less.

The y foot of the Lincoln highway in Pennsylvania is improved east of Beaver Falls. Some particularly fine roadway has been built between Philadelphia and Titon.

From the Can it a Indiana county line the William Penn highway is entirely improved to the eastern boundary of Pennsylvania.

Between Bluffington, Pa., and Fairbush, Pa. and there southward through Media and Tannock Square to the Maryland line the entire highway is improved and the section between Scranton and the New York line is one of the best in the United States.

A very foot of the National Pike in Pennsylvania is improved. There is long stretch especially on our h of the Maryland line.

Beginning at a point south of Salisbury, Somerset county the road is an improved highway connecting the National pike the Lincoln highway and the William Penn highway via Meyersdale, Somerset, Jennertown and Johnstown.

An important crossover is that from Greensburg to New Alexandria from which point travelers find an improved road to Indiana.

When Governor William C. Spring assumed office in 1919, he said Pennsylvania's good roads were an asset and its bad roads a liability. The State Highway Department during the last four years has succeeded greatly in reducing Pennsylvania's liabilities. Referring to what the Highway Department has done during the last four years, Assistant Highway Commissioner George H. Biles said today:

'In connection with the accomplishment of the Pennsylvania Highway Department since January 1 1930 I have only one regret—that Lewis S. Sadler did not live to see the completion of this splendid road mileage in which as state highway commissioner, he took so intense an interest

"Service With Fighting Men" A Relation of Good Will in Action

A War Welfare History, Edited by An Editorial Board
 Having Chief Justice Taft as Chairman

By F B JEFFRIES

THI story of the American Y M C A work in the World War has now been told. It's a tale of welfare work on an unprecedented scale. Under the supervision of an historical board of which William Howard Taft, Chief Justice of the United States, is chairman, there has just been published a complete, documented account of this service. It is called "Service with Fighting Men," and is in two volumes of 1,300 pages. This history makes no attempt at self-glorification or excuse, frankly admits and treats candidly of shortcomings. It was conceived as calling for more than a narrative of the activities of a single organization. It was recognized that the subject of welfare work merited treatment which would make accessible for reference and guidance a thorough presentation of the principles and programs in such work as applied to the Great War, and of their results.

Administered to Nineteen Million Fighting Men

Chief Justice Taft says in the foreword.

The American Young Men's Christian Association served between four and five millions of American soldiers and sailors in the trenches. As General Pershing has said, it conducted the trench work of the welfare work among the American forces in Europe. Moreover, alone among all relief work was it not hindered by immigration, first and last, interfered to not less than nineteen millions of the soldiers of the Allied Armies and extended its helpful activities to over five millions of prisciation to the American public, with its thousands of workers representing all backgrounds of race and religion, on its work by virtue of great public contributions. In the nation, therefore, an accounting of its stewardship is due. Taking into full account the blunder, opposition and delay in the Association's immense undertaking, a study of the present volunteers impresses one with the fact that the Association is a most commendable

"Its operations were conducted on western, southern and eastern fronts in Europe, in northern and eastern Asia, in the Middle East, in Africa, and in different parts of the island world. It may be questioned whether the organization has ever brought its helpful ministry to such vast numbers of men over such wide areas, under such varying conditions. The answer is yes."

The volumes recognize the organization as simply an agent through which the people of America and the best of its long experience in dealing with young men, and its world-wide scope. It was not only a national organization, but a world-wide organization which was pinned to the world map by its many welfare operations which were conducted in all parts of the world.

Errors and deficiencies in both of policy and performance, are pointed out, and the need given for improvement.

America should the need arise.

The National War Work Council organized within four days of America's entry into the war, and has since that time been the central agency for leading a chain of the nation in its professions and industries. Under the guidance, and the leadership of the National War Work Council, more than 200,000 American volunteers for service with the armed forces of the United States have been exempted by reason of age or disability from military service or in small number of instances, where no military authorities to serve for

The value of this history is infinitely increased by the care taken as pointed out by its Editorial Board to base a very important statement upon sound documentary evidence. WISE PROVISION OF NATURE

Good Old Dame Showed in Sending Young People Afield to Do Their Courting.

In that part of southern Europe inhabited by Slavs it is conceded that a young man in search of a wife should go to a neighboring village to find her. No such concession is made by American villagers, but Nature assumes authority and quietly works her wisdom without benefit of man's direction.

As a result, at least half of the young ladies who come to our town as school teachers remain as wives. They may be no prettier or smarter than home girls, but they have the charm of newness, and bachelor hearts long immune to the gentle persuasion skip a beat when they appear.

Our old girls do not remain uncourted, however. The town boys, having known them and quarreled with them since childhood, feel no thrill in their presence. But when the girls have finished college, most of them leave home again to teach in distant villages, and in a year or two we hear that young men have designs on them. These young men come courting during the summer, and we look them over shrewdly to see if they are worthy.

Nature is a wise old party, and she did more than statutes could do to prevent inbreeding when she made the hills look far away.—Philadelphia Inquirer.

Owl Preys by Night.
The habits of animals are developed and regulated chiefly by their surroundings and by the sort of prey on which they live. Scavengers, for example, can dive a considerable distance under water and catch the fish which form their principal article of diet, while a chicken would starve to death if forced to depend upon this method of securing food. So it is with owls, which generally make their appearance only after dark. This species of birds feeds mainly upon mice and other small creatures which are active at night. Therefore, the owl, which has developed a soft plumage that makes its flight almost noiseless, comes out after sunset in search of its food. It is also because of this habit that the owl's eyes, like the cat's, are so made that the pupil can be dilated until the bird is able to make use of every particle of light available and, while owls cannot see in absolute darkness, they are able to utilize the faintest of light rays to such an extent that they can spot and catch their prey unerringly.

His Name.
A Washington man, visiting Richmond, took a great fancy to a bright-eyed little ducky who polished his shoes. Shortly after he became interested in the little chap, the Washington man asked his name.
"Gee, huh," was the reply.
After a few moments of silence, the Washingtonian continued, "I suppose that is an abbreviation for General?"
The word "abbreviation" stumped the little fellow for a while, but he recovered himself. "No, huh," he said, "it ain't exactly that. My shore-nough name is General xxx, 88. So shall my righteousness answer for me in time to come. Washington Jones, at they joss calls me Gen' to sho't."—Philadelphia Ledger.

LUTHER BURBANK WARNS OF DETERIORATION OF RACE

"The United States is producing more lunatics, more criminals, more men of fine ability, as well as more men of no ability than any other nation," declares Luther Burbank in the January issue of Hearst's International Magazine. "Racial improvement, like plant improvement, is all a matter of heredity, environment, selection and crossing of types. The United States at this moment is the scene of such furious crossing of types as never before took place anywhere. 'We are making very little use of the opportunity for racial improvement that sex gives us. We are little more than a field of wild human weeds in which, here and there, is a superior type. 'Nature is so plastic that it is a crime to waste her forces. Plants are distant relatives. A flower is sometimes like a child rooted to the ground and a man suggests a tree that walks. With proper heredity, environment, selection and crossing, we can do with plant life almost what we will. Why should we neglect to do with human stock what we will? 'In human breeding as in plant breeding, there is no substitute for intelligent selection and crossing. One law governs all. We are only at the beginning of plant improvement. 'I have worked for more than sixty years and have learned something not only about plant life, but also about human life. The strongest conviction I have is that what can be done with plants can be done with human beings—and must be done if our civilization is not to be overwhelmed by the unfit.' Mr. Burbank, who evolved the Burbank potato, who removed the spines from the cactus, who gave a tree one hundred years growth in ten years, who made walnut husks large and the shells thin, and has produced the greatest marvels of plant breeding the world has ever known, discusses the dangers threatening civilization today in an article entitled, 'What Plants Have Taught Me About Men.'

At the Theatres

THE SOISSON.

"GRANDMA'S BOY" hailed as Harold Lloyd's most pretentious picture, opened today at this theatre for a three day attraction. "Grandma's Boy," Harold Lloyd's newest comedy in five parts, should win for Lloyd a "room and bath" in the Hall of Fame. The story, which is by Hal Roesch, Sam Taylor and Jean Haves, has for its theme a subject as serious as the regeneration of a coward, but its seriousness adds to rather than detracts from the fun.

Lloyd is the boy who, all his life, has been gripped by fear. One day, after his weakness has been driven very forcibly home to him, and he is filled with shame, his little old-fashioned grandma tells him a marvelous story of how his grandfather, who had disgraced himself in the Civil War, overcame his cowardice with the aid of a charm given him by a gypsy. Grandma gives the boy the charm, and what he does then is too good to tell. Suffice to say that the boy finds that courage is a matter of self-confidence, and he comes out on top. The cast, in support of Harold Lloyd in "Grandma's Boy," presents Mildred Davis, as the girl, Anna O'Connell as the grandmother, Charles Stevenson as the rival, Dick Sutherland as the Rolling Stone, and Noah Young as the Sheriff.

Thursday, Friday and Saturday Charles Jones will be featured in "West of Chicago."

THE PARAMOUNT.

"FORSAKING ALL OTHERS," showing today and tomorrow, this theatre presents Cullen Landis in the leading role.

It is a story of a mother love which was so great it could not share a son's affection with any other woman. How this selfish love proved a boomerang is described by Mary Lerner, the author, with unusual twists of the plot. Colleen Moore and Cullen Landis as the young couple in love, are the ideal type of wholesome boy and girl. In the picture they play the sort of roles in which they have become popular.

May Wallace as the mother and June Elvinge as the matron who turns the boy from his girl sweetheart are well fitted to the important parts they play. Sam De Graesse as the family doctor and David Torrence as a man of society have the other supporting roles. "The Warmth and Tenderness" to the characterization of the story which balances the tense drama of some of the scenes. The story is by Mary Lerner.

Enrico Chantard, a finely qualified French artist, was especially fitted to direct this story, which pictures numerous fine scenes of feeling. The play leaves one with a feeling of wholesome satisfaction.

Wednesday and Thursday, Audrey Munson will be featured in "Head Long Moths."

THE ORPHEUM.

"BURNING SANDS," a Paramount picture, said to be even better than "The Sheik," with Milton Sills and Wanda Hawley in the leading roles, is the feature picture today. Tuesday and Wednesday at this theatre. This superb production of George Melford, is said to be one of the most recent romances of the desert ever screened. It can be truthfully said that "Burning Sands" is a man's answer to "The Sheik." It is a beautiful Arabian romance, and is filled with love, thrill, tenderness, swift dramatic action, heart appeal, color and photography of exquisite charm. The picture must be seen to be fully appreciated. Mr. Sills and Miss Hawley play parts which are direct opposites of the roles played by Akma Ayres and Richard Dix in "The Sheik." In that Miss Hawley plays the headstrong English girl who sets out to win the man she loves, while Mr. Sills is the one who does not love until it comes close to his heart. After a long struggle against love, he succumbs.

An excellent cast supports Miss Hawley and Mr. Sills, including such well-known players as Jacqueline Logan, Robert Calhoun, Walter Holt, Louise Dresser, and others.

Cokers Too Strong For Confluence; Score 61-20

Coach Wine Uses Second and Third String Men With Results.

CITY LEAGUE MEETING

Confluence High School, with a quartet of plucky floor men who never gave up trying, was completely outclassed by Conneltsville High here Saturday night. The final result was 61-20. Conneltsville's first team opened the game and traveling at a fast clip soon plugged up a commanding lead. Then the second unit, with the exception of "Mickey" McCormick, took the floor and continued to go. In the final minutes the third stringers were given a chance and that squad also scored.

There was a fairly good house present and although the best basketball game possible was not seen, it gave the Cokers an excellent opportunity for a workout. The defeat at Broadview the night previous seemed not to have disheartened the athletes and they showed considerable speed in getting the ball from one end of the floor to the other.

The lineup: Confluence—20, McCormick, 66, Groff, Harmon, 57, Van Sickle, Lowrey, 50, Fisher, Walsh, 40, Gearhard, Larue, 30, Black.

Field goals—McCormick 10, Harmon 2, Lowrey, 11, Groff 2, Willis 2, Van Sickle 1, Fisher 1.

ALL TEAMS WILL HAVE REPRESENTATIVES AT CITY LEAGUE SESSION

With the promise of the presence of a representative from every team which will meet members in the City League at the meeting at 7:30 o'clock tonight in the American Legion rooms, over the Soisson Theatre, it seems likely that some definite step will be taken to indicate that is not interested and the league will be organized with what teams are present.

Information today was that the league will consist of only six teams. It is understood there are more applicants for places but all will not be considered.

The public is interested in a City League and is anxious that the organization be perfected. There are a number of matters to be decided on before the season can open and it is difficult to take action on any of the subjects unless all teams are represented.

The American Legion basketball team will practice tonight at the Armory, beginning at 8:30 o'clock. It will be the first workout of the season for the ex-soldiers. The Legion expects to be even stronger this year than last and practically the same team, with the exception of Housholder, will be on the floor. The personnel includes John Brown, Harry Crawford, Carl Kable, Frank Hearty, Frank Hartley, Percy Shultz, "Sawyer" Miller, Robert Bracken, Charles Yaw, Walter DeBolt, John Ranker, Raymond Beck and John Butler.

EASTERN CONFERENCE USELESS, SAYS ROPER

Princeton Coach Sees No Need for Football Guild.

Game is Cleaner and More Popular Than Ever and No Danger of Abuse Which Years Ago Caused Scandals and Ill-Feeling.

An eastern football conference, similar to that in existence in the West, would be useless, in view of the high caliber of the gridiron sport in this section of the country, according to an interview with William H. Roper, coach of the undefeated Princeton eleven.

"Spare bowling is what counts," is an aphorism of the alleys. Straight strikes are better than spare strikes, but it is next to impossible to make all strikes in succession with the accuracy of bowling. will permit a man to make every frame a spare or strike.

There are certain balls that are called strike balls, which if bowled properly, will result the greatest number of times in strikes, and there is a bowling ball is shown.

But the fortunes of the game turn on a great many strikes into the worst of "spills" and a great many split balls into spare strikes.

The element of chance is not near so great in spare bowling for the majority of spares have to be made in certain ways.

The weather finally gets too cold for football and stays that way until they open the baseball season, when it's also too cold.

Earl Martineau, quarterback, was elected captain of the 1923 University of Minnesota football team at a meeting of the letter men.

Roper expressed himself in this manner when asked for his opinion of the non-collegiate movement to organize such a conference, in which eight of the leading universities and colleges of the East would be members.

"Today the game is cleaner and more popular than it ever was," said Mr. Roper, "and there is no danger of the abuses which years ago caused scandals and engendered bad feelings among the large universities. There is absolutely no professionalism, and there is a widespread trustworthiness on athletic questions."

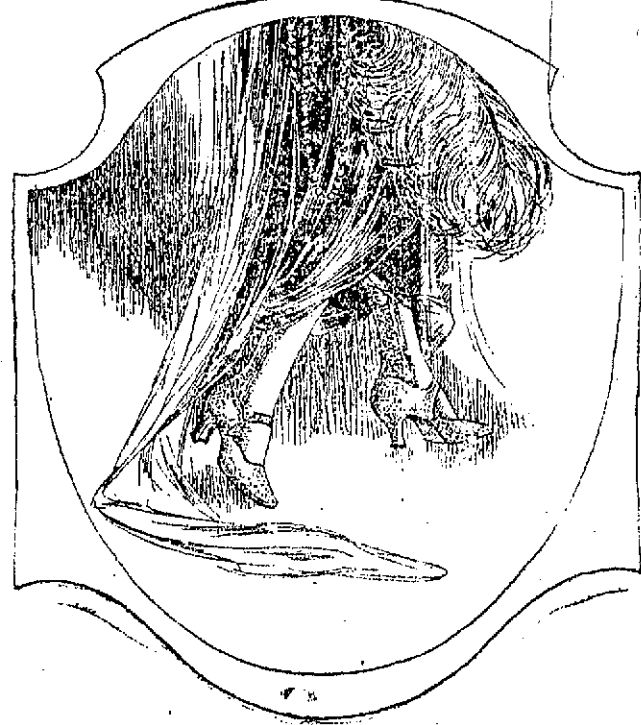

"The one thing that shows the popularity of college athletics among outsiders is the unparalleled demand for tickets for all the big games this year. Yale, Harvard, Princeton and Pennsylvania have all had record crowds, and this public interest is due to the fact that people know collegiate football is on the level."

"We do not need any constitutional amendments to the code of sportsmanship."
